

Peter Brantley

Director of Access, Internet Archive

Peter is Director of Access for the Internet Archive. He was previously Executive Director for the Digital Library Federation (DLF), a not-for-profit international association of large research and government libraries and allied institutions. He is a regular contributor to the O'Reilly Tools of Change for Publishing weblog, and serves on the program committee for the O'Reilly Tools of Change for Publishing Conference. Peter is a member of the Board of Directors for the International Digital Publishing Forum (IDPF), the trade and standards association for the digital publishing industry.