Hyperlink a Grand Alliance

ROBERT D. ATKINSON | JUNE 2019

As Rob Atkinson and Pradeep Mehta write for the Economic Times, India and the United States are naturally placed to develop a shared global vision for digital economy.

As Rob Atkinson and Pradeep Mehta write for the Economic Times, India and the United States are naturally placed to develop a shared global vision for the digital economy. Further, they are also equally equipped to present an optimal alternative to the approaches taken in China and the European Union, where they are developing their own digital economy frameworks and governance systems and seeking to export those to their respective spheres of influence. The leadership in India and the United States needs to actively work towards achieving a digital alliance before it’s too late.